SALOON IS NOT WELCOME THERE.

Rhineland Estate Opposes One on Eleventh Street.

MIXED STATE OF AFFAIRS.

Liquor Dealer's Agent Claims to Have Obtained Consent of Two-thirds of Owners.

EMBRACED IN BUT TWO NAMES.

Point Is Made That When a Doctor's or Boarding House "To Let" Sign Hangs at a Window the House Is No Longer Private.

Mr. James P. Burrell, manager of the Rhineland estate, is opposing the efforts of Weinstein &amp; Co., of No. 165 Sixth avenue, to open a wine and liquor establishment adjoining the Rhineland row of private houses on the south side of Eleventh street, just west of Sixth avenue.

An excise official says the trouble began when Cammerer, the shoe dealer, moved from his Twelfth street store, also owned by the Rhineland estate, and sold the unexpired lease to Weinstein for his liquor and grocery business. This displeased the Rhinelanders and they recently refused to extend the lease to the new tenant for the coming year. Mr. Weinstein thereupon leased the Sixth avenue end of the big triangular building on the southwest corner of Eleventh street. It was in that building that W. D. Howells for a time edited the Cosmopolitan Magazine. As the structure adjoins a row of Rhineland dwellings Weinstein's friends thought it a neat turning of the tables on the Rhineland estate, which had forced him to vacate 165 Sixth avenue.

Mr. Weinstein sought a license, but when a solicitor of one of the Bond Guarantee Company set about securing the signatures of consent necessary the Rhinelanders estate opposed, and the license scheme seemed dead. Then the solicitor of a rival bond guarantee company hustled around and soon claimed to have the consent of the necessary property owners, namely, William A. Cummings and James A. Towe, who own the last two-thirds of the adjoining owners of private residences. It was claimed that these two men and the Rhineland estate were the only proprietors of "strictly private residences" within a legal radius of two hundred feet from the nearest entrance to the liquor store. To determine whether they are other owners and whether the signatures already obtained are genuine is what the manager of the Rhineland estate is trying to do.

This particular case is reviving many stories of irregularities and excise scandal that have been whispered around headquarters in the big white insurance building in Madison square since the new law went into force. It is said that the statute is particularly favorable to the interests of the liquor men. The law says that one-third of the property owners of strictly private houses within a radius of two hundred feet must be obtained before a license shall be granted. But a clause exempts any dwelling bearing the sign of a doctor, milliner, dressmaker or lodging house keeper. The moment a bit of lettering appears in the window of a professional character, the structure legally becomes a business establishment and does not stand against the license. No matter how strongly the proprietor may oppose the opening of a new saloon, if one of his boarders or tenants hangs out a tin sign, and cheerfully recommends the place, all legal rights to oppose a saloon in an adjoining building.

Even the sunny days in early Spring are full of danger.

But to get your boy into an overcoat such days, it must needs be one he's proud of wearing—such as his father's, short and made of covert cloth.

We have three—reefers, top-coats (reefer length), and the ordinary length.

For men, a dozen different shades of covert coating to select from—prices $15 to $28.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

Best Spring Remedy in the World--It Makes People Well.

There is one true specific for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system, and that is Paine's celery compound, so generally prescribed by physicians. It is probably the most remarkable remedy that the scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth College, first prescribed what is now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, all nervous diseases and kidney troubles. For the latter Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

The medical journals of this country have given more space in the last few years to the many remarkable cases where the use of Paine's celery compound has made people well than to any other medicine.
